

Asher, Alana & Zarina –

Congratulations on your win in the student documentary competition run by C-SPAN. You made a very brave and thoughtful decision when you decided to explore the dark side of pet breeding, and to educate people about the sad state of affairs for animals in breeding situations across the country, as well as the lack of legal enforcement of these facilities. In doing so, your work could help many animals.

You chose to focus on some of the country's most vulnerable innocents, and your research and insightful questioning showed a real understanding of all sides of the issue. Hopefully your documentary will be seen by many, and your work will have the added value of saving the lives of many animals, and encouraging people to get their pets from shelters instead of breeders.

I am so proud to have been a small part of this undertaking of yours. Keep up the great work!
